Computational intelligence (CI) is a set of nature-inspired computational methodologies and approaches to address complex real-world problems, to which mathematical or traditional modeling is not useful. The workshop would focus on the theory, design, application, and development of computational paradigms emphasizing neural networks, genetic algorithms, fuzzy systems, evolutionary programming, and hybrid intelligent systems.

The IWCIA’16 features three-day international workshop which includes academic sessions by experts to promote different aspects of CI. The workshop co-locates renowned researchers, academicians and industry professionals at one single location, providing a unique opportunity to encourage collaborations and innovations in all areas of CI.
